NORWAY.

Emilius Eriksen of Drammen, who celebrated his eightieth birthday this spring, is mentioned as an instance of rabid patriotism of the eighties, when the radical portion of the Norwegian people began to demand the removal of the "Union Sign" from the Norwegian flag. Early in the morning of a 17th of May some thirty years ago the good people of Drammen were shocked "pure" Norwegian flag waving in the wind above the Drammen bridge. A rush was made for the revolutionary no. hold on the anarchistic piece of canvass. But at the foot of the flagstaff stood Emilius Eriksen, broad-shouldered and deflant. He swore that the flag was to remain in the air as long as he could swing an ax, and he actually held a shining ax in his hand. No one had cause to find out whether he was in earnest, and as Emilius Eriksen remained at the spot all day the "pure" flag had nothing more serious to deal with than the fickle May-day breezes. Those who took part in that flag controversy some thirty years ago are wondering themselves how they could impute such a tremendous importance to the "pure" flag squabble. Even in the mind of Emilius Eriksen himself it ference. Steps are under way for the is gradually changing from a tragedy

How to get rich by trading in iorses. A farmer at Viborg wanted to buy horse very badly. But he had very, very little money. Finally he ran across a horse that he could have for $3. . He made up his mind that this was the horse for him, and he bought it. To clinch the bargain he and were in no great hurry to get out out the horse was dead. Now, this really seemed a streak of very bad discouraged. He went to a man who was in the habit of turning all sorts of uncouth material into cash, and this man paid $4 for the dead horse. So the man who was supposed to have sustained a loss actually made one dollar that the former owner of the horse_might_have_made_if_he_had own as much as the owner number two did.

A special stock census was taken in Denmark last February. The returns have been compiled sufficiently to bring out the following figures: There were 515,000 horses and colts, as against 526,000 in May last year. There were 2,290,000 head of cattle, as against 2,416,000 a year ago. This decrease of 127,000 in about months. From July, 1914, to May, 1915, the decrease in the number of hogs was 500,000. The low water mark seems to have been reached at the latter date, for there was an increase of 64,000 from May, 1915, to February, 1916. In the number of sheep there was a tremendous slump from 533,034 in May, 1915, to 254,636 in February, 1916. All these figures last year. For nearly three months I have been neglecting you. During this time I have been talking to the people of Grayling and vicinity through the Avalanche and I don't just know how many of you good people it reaches. Many of my good customers are coming without invitation, and I still find there is a big chance for development along this line. Nevertheless I am unable to understand why you people persist in paying 10, 12½ and 15 to 25c more for some articles than I am charging. This may be a trifle for me to worry about, but it is enough to make me understand. But a part of you are fully acquainted with my store and my mode of doing business. At any rate I am here going to quote you some prices that will be well for you to look into.

You never saw such a hard time to get good merchandise at a price, but leave that to me; I am finding it. When I tell you I can save you one-half on straw and felt hats on some lines and still make my profit, I am putting it mild; also on a certain line of shoes that I purchased. It is no further from you to my store than it is from me to you, when I call and deliver you this earnest talk. This will be the banner month for people to trade—from now until the fourth. That's why I get busy. I trust this bill will lead you to my store, not out of curiosity, but a real ardent customer. So why not like others, get the habit and go to Frank's.

Eat More and Pay Less

Are You Interested in the Economical Management of Your Household Expenses, Especially in the Important Subject of Table Expense? Read This:

There are two ways in which you can curtail your monthly table expense. One is to buy a very cheap grade of provisions and groceries, which, while apparently cheap in price, are yet even cheaper in quality, are lacking in the proper nourishment, and eventually lead to the impairment of your health. The other and better way is to buy only articles of guaranteed purity. Such articles are rich in the life sustaining nutriment and hence require a less amount to satisfy the demands of nature. You can readily see that in the end they are by far the cheaper, because they stimulate health, prevent doctor bills, and prolong your life and usefulness. This Store Handles Only a Pure and Quaranteed Grade of Groceries and Provisions, but we Sell Them at Popular Prices. Try them.

For nearly three months I have been neglecting you. During this time I have been talking to the people of Grayling and vicinity through the Avalanche and I don't just know how many of you good people it reaches. Many of my good customers are coming without invitation, and I still find there is a big chance for development along this line. Nevertheless I am unable to understand why you people persist in paying 10, 12% and 15 to 25c more for some articles than I am charging. This may be a trifle for me to worry about, but it is enough to make me understand. But a part of you are fully acquainted with my store and my mode of doing business. At any rate I am here going to quote you some prices that will be well for you to look into.

You never saw such a hard time to get good merchandise at a price, but leave that to me; I am finding it. When I tell you I can save you one-half on straw and felt hats on some lines and still make my profit, I am putting it mild; also on a certain line of shoes that I purchased. It is no further from you to my store than it is from me to you, when I call and deliver you this earnest talk. This will be the banner month for people to trade—from now until the fourth. That's why I get busy. I trust this bill will lead you to my store; not out of curiosity, but a real ardent customer. So why not like others, get the habit and go to Frank's.

Table Expense? Read This: There are two ways in which you can curtail your monthly table expense. One is to buy a very cheap grade of provisions and groceries, which, while apparently cheap in price, are yet even cheaper in quality, are lacking in the proper nourishment, and eventually lead to the impairment of your health. The other and better way is to buy only articles of guaranteed purity. Such articles are rich in the life sustaining nutriment and hence require a less amount to satisfy the demands of nature. You can readily see that in the end they are by far the cheaper, because they stimulate health,

For nearly three months I have been neglecting you. During this time I have been talking to the people of Grayling and vicinity through the Avalanche and I don't just know how many of you good people it reaches. Many of my good customers are coming without invitation, and I still find there is a big_chance for development along this line. Nevertheless I am unable to understand why you people persist in paying 10, 121/2 and 15 to 25c more for some articles than I am charging. This may be a trifle for me to worry about, but it is enough to make me understand. But a part of you are fully acquainted with my store and my mode of doing business. At any rate I am here going to quote you some prices that will be well for you to look into.

You never saw such a hard time to get good merchandise at a price, but leave that to me; I am finding it. When I tell you I can save you one half on straw and felt hats on some lines and still make my profit, I am putting it mild; also on a certain line of shoes that I purchased. It is no further from you to my store than it is from me to you, when I call and deliver you this earnest talk. This will be the banner month for people to trade-from now until the fourth. That's why I get busy. I trust this bill will lead you to my store, not out of curiosity, but a real ardent customer. So why not like others, get the habit and go to Frank's.

Eat More and Pay Less

Are You Interested in the Economical Management of Your Household Expenses, Especially in the Important Subject of Table Expense? Read This:

There are two ways in which you can curtail your monthly table expense. One is to buy a very cheap grade of provisions and groceries, which, while apparently cheap in price, are yet even cheaper in quality, are lacking in the proper nourishment, and eventually lead to the impairment of your health. The other and better way is to buy only articles of guaranteed purity. Such articles are rich in the life sustaining nutriment and hence require a less amount to satisfy the demands of nature. You can readily see that in the end they are by far the cheaper, because they stimulate health, prevent doctor bills, and prolong your life and usefulness.

This Store Handles Only a Pure and Guaranteed Grade of Groceries and Provisions, but we Sell Them at Popular Prices. Try them.

Timothy Hackworth was associated with William Hedley from 1811 to 1814. Mr. Hackworth was foreman over the mechanical department of Wylem colliery, and Mr. Hedley was coal viewer. They worked out the traction ability of smooth rails and smooth wheels together. They also built two locomotive engines during this period known as "Wylem Dilly" and "Puffing Billy." The popular name for these engines in the colliery district, where all the parties were known, was "Timothy's Dillys."

Stephenson used to visit Wylem colliery on Sundays from Killingworth colliery and make sketches of these engines. RAVES ABOUT OUR GARDENS

Writer Says They Are So Ravishing, So Sunlit, Abounding in Freshness and Beauty.

"I can't say enough in praise of the American gardens! I think I should rave about them if I ever let myself' go," exclaimed Miss Carlisle. "They are ravishing-so sunlit, abounding in freshness and beauty! Do you realize that they are so brilliant that I can never show paintings of American gardens in the same room with English gardens, because they make them look quite dreary? Their one fault is that there is often too much statuary in and too much of it irrelevant Frequently, too, they are not rambly enough, and seem a little self-con-scious. In English gardens small stones mellow with years are used, and the furnishings add that warmth which breeds intimacy. It is the informal garden that attracts the artist In England these abound, with their winding paths passing through uneven hedges of many varieties of flowers That—uneven—hedge, flashing forth vivid colors, one seldom sees in Amer ica, probably because of the fluctuat ing climate and the vogue of a more formal arrangement."--Ethel R. "His Own Lawyer."

Over and over again, the wisdom of the adage, "A man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client," and the understanding that inspired the injunction, "Physician, heal thyself," are established in the courts. Every lawyer is familiar with many instances in which the wills of distinguished jurists have been set aside because they were improperly drawn, and it is a matter of pretty common knowledge that few doctors can diagnose their own ailments. Another exemplification now appears in the conflict about the will of the late Dr. Austin Flint. He was, perhaps, more frequently employed as an expert witness as to testamentary the country. Questions of mental fitness, of intent, of motive and of the other attributes of a "sound-disposing mind" were before him constantly. Yet he drew his own will so ambiguously, so obscurely, that his executors have been compelled to invoke the aid of the court to determine what the learned_testator_meant.-Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of New Post Toasties bear a unique attraction for the kiddiesthey even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "eats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream-both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

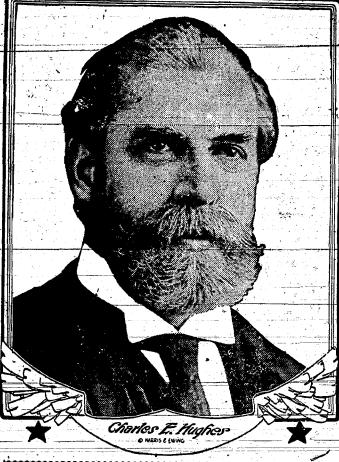

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

Routine business followed—but it wasn't routine in the same way as the Republican session was. The Progressives, with such men as William Allen White, Victor Murdock, and Hiram Johnson, were loudly enthusiastic. This convention was really an explosive affair—cheers, table pounding, radical talk and all that.

It is said that George W. Perkins and some others of the Progressive group had a hard time keeping the radical element from nominating Colonel Roosevelt shortly after the show started. The conservatives lived in the hope of a fusion with the Republicans. The radicals said they didn't care what the Republicans did. They wanted "Teddy," and they wanted him quick.
